

To Whom it may concern:

I began a working relationship with Matt Alam and Sirius Instrumentation and Controls Inc. in early 2023. They had performed some work for [REDACTED] prior to my entry into the field, but this was my first experience working with your team. As the chemical account manager for [REDACTED], this relationship had to be one of quickly established trust.

I am excited to say that Matt and his team made my transition a delightful one. The communication and will to provide a quality product that they displayed are second to none. These two attributes continue to play an integral role as our business partnership continues at multiple [REDACTED] leases.

The dedication and attention to detail that they exhibit should be the standard in the oil industry. They take absolute pride in providing a job well done, and this can be seen in the cleanliness and efficiency of their pump setup programs.

I will continue to recommend their services and products to my teammates and business companions that pump chemicals in our industry. This recommendation is a testament to the wonderful experience that I have had with Matt Alam and his team.

Sincerely,

[REDACTED]
